PRÉFACE

Lorsque j'ai entrepris le présent travail, en février 1905, seize ans s'étaient écoulés depuis la publication de l'admirable ouvrage de Brünnow : A classified list of all simple and compound cuneiform ideographs occurring in the texts hitherto published, with their assyro-babylonian equivalents, phonetic values, etc. (Leyden 1899, in-4°.) La masse de documents publiés dans cet intervalle est si considérable que, voulant faire une étude aussi complète que possible de la grammaire sumérienne, je ne crus pas pouvoir l'entreprendre sans avoir au préalable dépouillé les textes bilingues (syllabaires, lexiques, hymnes et incantations) qui, sur beaucoup de points encore obscurs, pouvaient apporter une lumière nouvelle. Ce dépouillement achevé, je pensai qu'il serait préférable de le publier, pour m'y référer dans mes travaux ultérieurs et éviter aux savants qui voudraient s'occuper des mêmes questions de refaire le même effort. Je me décidai donc à l'imprimer, tout incomplet et imparfait qu'il m'apparût à moi-même. Le but spécial que je m'étais d'abord proposé explique le choix que j'ai fait parmi les textes publiés en ces seize dernières années : voulant avant tout tirer des textes bilingues, qui sont encore la base indispensable d'une étude du sumérien, tous les renseignements qu'ils contiennent sur cette langue, j'ai admis les mots déjà cités dans le recueil de Brünnow mais qu'il pouvait être intéressant de retrouver avec une glose indiquant la prononciation, ou dans un contexte nouveau, avec un rôle syntactique différent, et, surtout pour les verbes, une forme nouvelle. Au contraire, j'ai laissé de côté les idéogrammes disséminés dans les textes assyriens unilingues, et j'ai renoncé à recommencer le dépouillement des hymnes bilingues publiés par Reisner [1], dont M. Virolleaud avait tiré l'essentiel [1], et pour lesquels il a dressé récemment, à ma requête, une liste de formes verbales [2] qui comble la lacune la plus regrettable de son premier travail.

1. Sumerisch-babylonische Hymnen nach Thontafeln griechischer Zeit. Berlin, 1896, in-4°.

Sur les cinq mille quatre cent soixante-cinq articles que comprend cette Contribution, je compte environ cent quatre-vingt-dix noms de signes nouveaux, et cinq cent soixante-cinq valeurs phonétiques qui s'ajoutent aux quinze cent quarante-deux recueillies par Brünnow. Quelques-unes de ces valeurs, telles que KAR (3822), DUB et DUG (4087, 4088), ne sont pas absolument inconnues : elles avaient été déduites par les grammairiens et enregistrées par Brünnow avec un astérisque. J'ai grand plaisir à constater que, sur tous les points où un texte nouveau a permis de contrôler les conclusions des sumérologues, celles-ci ont été absolument confirmées. Ce fait atteste la valeur des méthodes de la philologie sumérienne.

Les mots sumériens expliqués par l'assyrien ou simplement attestés sont au nombre de quatre mille sept cents, parmi lesquels j'estime, sans avoir pu en faire un compte exact, que les deux tiers fournissent des équivalences nouvelles [3]. Une partie est rangée sous des signes nouveaux, qui atteignent le chiffre surprenant de soixante-seize.

J'ai cru devoir suivre l'ordre des signes adopté par Brünow, bien qu'il ne soit pas toujours fidèle au principe de classement adopté. Pour les noms de signes du type ŠA-KIKAKU-GEŠPA-IGUB, j'ai lu GUB au lieu de DU (Brünnow), par comparaison avec les noms TAB-LAMMUBI-IGI-GUBBÛ et EDIM-MINNABI-IGI-GUBBU (Br. 5902-4), mais j'ai maintenu pour le premier signe la lecture ŠA, évidemment fausse, faute de raisons absolument décisives en faveur d'une autre lecture.

Je suis heureux de pouvoir remercier ici M. Virolleaud, mon ancien élève et mon ami, qui a bien voulu se charger de revoir les épreuves et de dresser les tables, et qui prépare un index assyrien-sumérien, contrepartie et complément indispensable de ce travail. — L'autographie, dont il est inutile de vanter la netteté, est de M. Toscanne.
